Rite of the Opening of the Door of Mercy in Local Churches

December 13, 2015
Third Sunday of Advent

INTRODUCTION

The following Rite of the Opening of the Door of Mercy in Local Churches pertains both to the Churches of the Roman Rite and western Churches not of the Roman Rite. The competent authorities of the latter may adjust the ritual to meet local cultural norms.

Bishops of the Easter Churches, if they wish, may adapt the rite in harmony with their own liturgical traditions.

The day

1. In the bull of induction Misericordiae Vultus (MV), Pope Francis decreed that the Holy Year will begin on the Solemnity of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary, December 8, 2015, with the opening of the Holy Door in the Basilica of St. Peter at the Vatican. On the following Sunday, December 13, the Third Sunday of Advent, the opening of the Holy Door of the Cathedral of Rome, the Basilica of St. John Lateran, will take place. After that, the Holy Doors of the other Papal Basilicas will be opened. Moreover, the Holy Father decreed that on the same Sunday, “in every local church, at the cathedral — the mother church of the faithful in any particular area — or, alternatively, at the co-cathedral or another church with special meaning, a Door of Mercy will be opened for the duration of the Holy Year. At the discretion of the local ordinary, a similar door may be opened at any shrine frequented by large groups of pilgrims, since visits to these holy sites are so often grace-filled moments as people discover a path to conversion” (MV, 3).

The place

2. The Jubilee Year will be inaugurated in the cathedral of each diocese with the opening of the Door of Mercy at a single celebration of the Liturgy of the Eucharist. If, according to the norms of Canon Law, there is a co-cathedral in the diocese, an opening of the Door of Mercy will also take place there.

Furthermore, a Eucharistic celebration will take place in other churches and shrines in which the diocesan bishop has designated a Door of Mercy. A delegate of the bishop will preside over these ceremonies, at which one of the prayers below is recited at the main door (cf. nos. 40-45).
The nature of the celebration

3. The elements that make up the rite of the opening of the Door of Mercy reflect its character and meaning:

- the mystery of God, rich in mercy and compassion (Eph 2:4 and Jas 5:11), manifested and brought about in Christ, the Father’s face of mercy (MV, 1), continually at work through the gift of the Holy Spirit (Jn 20:22-23);
- the recognition of Christ as the sole door through which we enter salvation (cf. Jn 10:9) and the one way that leads to the Father (Jn 14:6);
- the Church’s ongoing pilgrimage toward “Jesus Christ (who) is the same yesterday, today, and forever” (Heb 13:8).

The celebrant

4. The diocesan bishop presides over the entire ceremony. This accords, on the one hand, with the Lord’s Day and the Church’s ancient tradition, and, on the other, with the extraordinary event of the Jubilee Year. The Mass of December 13, 2015, will be observed as a stational Mass (cf. Caeremoniale Episcoporum, 120) at which the priests, especially the bishop’s closest collaborators, concelebrate with him; the deacons, acolytes, and lectors perform their respective ministries, and the lay faithful are encouraged to attend inasmuch as possible.

The specific symbolism of the opening celebration

5. Within the context of the Eucharistic celebration, the specific gesture that marks the beginning of the extraordinary Holy Year is the opening of the Door of Mercy and the solemn procession of the local church — the bishop, clergy, and people — into the cathedral, the Mother Church of all the faithful, where the Pastor of the diocese exercises his magisterial role, celebrates the sacred mysteries, carries out the liturgical acts of praise and supplication, and guides the ecclesial community.

6. This liturgy is composed of five parts:

- the statio, either in the church or in another appropriate place,
- the solemn procession,
- the opening of the Door of Mercy and the entrance into the cathedral,
- the renewal of Baptismal promises,
- and the celebration of the Eucharist.

The statio

7. The church chosen as the statio should be significant and sufficiently large to accommodate those participating in the introductory rites. It should be neither too far from the cathedral nor too close, but rather at a distance conducive to a procession.
8. The constitutive moments of the statio are: the greeting and the initial exhortation, the proclamation of a Gospel passage, and the recitation of the opening section of the Bull of Indiction, Misericordiae Vultus.

The procession

9. The procession represents the Church’s pilgrimage, a practice that “has special place in the Holy Year, because it represents the journey each of us makes in this life” (MV, 14). The procession recalls the fact that “mercy is also a goal to reach and requires dedication and sacrifice” (ibid.)

10. Particularly appropriate for the procession are Psalm 86 which resonates with a sense of trust, total abandonment to God, and the hope of his saving help; and Psalm 25 which sings of the goodness of God in whom the Psalmist places his trust and finds serenity and peace. Due to its ancient and multifaceted role in solemn processions, the Litany of the Saints is also very suitable to this occasion.

11. The Book of the Gospels plays an important role in this procession. It should be carried by a deacon. It represents both Christ walking among his people and his Word, the light that guides his disciples.

The opening of the Door of Mercy and the entrance into the cathedral

12. The procession should proceed through the main door of the cathedral, which has particular Christological significance (cf. Jn 10:7,9) and serves as the Door of Mercy, a constant reminder of the meaning of this Extraordinary Jubilee. Using the words of Psalm 118, the bishop invokes the opening of the Door that leads to God’s merciful heart made accessible through the open side of Christ on the cross (cf. Jn 19:34). It is in fact the door that leads to salvation as the antiphon based on John 10:9 makes clear. The entrance should therefore be rendered solemn by:

- decorating the door with leafy branches or other ornamentation specific to the local culture, and with fitting Christological symbols;
- by placing special emphasis on the crossing of the threshold: before proceeding inside the cathedral, the bishop should pause together with the entire procession. During this pause, the door itself should be opened and the Book of the Gospels, the word of mercy, should be solemnly displayed, first toward the outside of the cathedral and then toward the inside while the antiphon “I am the door” is sung.

13. Once the pause at the door is completed, the bishop, bearing the Book of the Gospels, moves in procession with the concelebrants toward the altar while the faithful take their places. During this time, the entrance antiphon for the Third Sunday of Advent or some other appropriate hymn is sung.

Renewal of baptismal vows

14. The sacrament of Baptism is the door through which one enters the community of the Church. The rite of blessing the water and sprinkling the community with it is a living reminder of this sacrament. Indeed, Baptism is “the first sacrament of the New Law, through which those who firmly accept Christ in faith and receive the Spirit of adoption become in name and in fact God’s adopted children. Joined with Christ in a death and resurrection like his, they become part of his Body. Filled with the anointing of the Spirit, they become God’s holy temple and members of the Church, ‘a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, God’s own people’” (The Book of Blessings, no. 1080).

The celebration of the Eucharist

15. The celebration of the Eucharist, “as the action of Christ and of the People of God arrayed hierarchically, is the center of the whole Christian life for the Church both universal and local, as well as for each of the faithful individually. For in it is found the high point both of the action by which God sanctifies the world in Christ and of the worship that the human race offers to the Father, adoring him through Christ, the Son of God, in the Holy Spirit” (The General Instruction of the Roman Missal, 16). It is precisely for this reason that it stands at the apex of the inaugural celebrations of this Jubilee Year. In the Eucharist, the Father rushes with mercy to meet everyone who seeks God “with a sincere heart,” continually offering his covenant to mankind and giving us a foretaste of the eternity of his kingdom, where, we pray, “with the whole of creation, freed from the corruption of sin and death,” we may “glorify” the Father for ever (Eucharistic Prayer IV).

Things to prepare

16. The following items should be prepared in the sacristy of the stational church:

- the liturgical vestments to be worn by the Bishop, the concelebrating priests, the deacons, and the other ministers at Mass;
- the cope, if the bishop is to wear one during the procession;
- the processional cross and candles;
- the Book of the Gospels;
- thethurible and incense.

These items should be prepared in the cathedral:

- the basin with water to be blessed and used for the sprinkling rite;
The Rite of Introduction in the Stational Church

17. On the Third Sunday of Advent, or at First Vespers of that Sunday, at the established time, the faithful gather in a nearby church or another fitting location outside the cathedral (or co-cathedral), toward which the procession will be directed.

18. The Bishop, concelebrating Priests, and Deacons put on violet (or rose) colored liturgical vestments and make their way to where the people are gathered. Instead of a chasuble the Bishop may vest in a cope, which he will remove after the procession.

19. While the Bishop and the ministers go to the places prepared for them, the Hymn of the Jubilee is sung. This hymn may be accompanied by the organ or other suitable instruments.

The Bishop turns to the people and says:

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.

The people reply: Amen.

He then greets the people with these words:

The mercy of the Father, the peace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the communion of the Holy Spirit be with you all.

The people reply: And with your spirit.

20. The Bishop invites the people to bless and praise God:
Cf. Ps 103

Glory to you, Father, who forgive our faults and heal our infirmities.

R. Your mercy endures forever.
Glory to you, Lord, merciful and kind,
slow to anger and abounding in mercy.

R. Your mercy endures forever.

Glory to you, Lord; you who are a tender Father toward your children.

R. Your mercy endures forever.

or:

Blessed are you, Father:
you alone have done great things for us.
Cf. Ps 136:4

R. Your love endures forever.

Blessed are you, only begotten Son:
you have freed us from our sins with your blood.
Cf. Rv 1:5

R. Your love endures forever.

Blessed are you, Holy Spirit:
consoler of the soul and its most soothing relief.
Cf. Sequence for Pentecost

R. Your love endures forever.

21. The Bishop then delivers a brief exhortation in these or similar words.

Dearly beloved brothers and sisters,
with eyes fixed on Jesus and his merciful face,
the Holy Father, on the Solemnity of the Immaculate Conception, inaugurated an Extraordinary Jubilee,
thus opening to us and to all men and women the door of God’s mercy.

In communion with the universal Church,
this celebration marks the solemn beginning of the Holy Year in our diocesan Church;
a prelude to the profound experience of grace and reconciliation
that awaits us this year.

We shall joyfully listen to the Gospel of mercy that Christ the Lord, the Lamb of God who takes away
the sins of the world, continually proclaims throughout the world,
inviting us to rejoice in his love:
a love announced again and again to every creature on earth.

22. After the exhortation, the bishop says the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Cf. Masses for Various Occasions,
“For Reconciliation,” Opening Prayer, n. 2

O God, author of true freedom, who desired to gather the whole human race into one people,
unshackled from the chains of slavery;
and who give to us, your children, a time of mercy and forgiveness;
grant that your Church,
ever expanding in freedom and peace,
may brilliantly shine out to all as a sacrament of salvation;
and make known and active in the world the mystery of your love.
We ask this through Christ our Lord.

R. Amen.

23. The proclamation of the Gospel by the deacon follows.

+ A reading from the Gospel according to Luke 15:1-7

There will be rejoiceing in heaven over one sinner who converts
Tax collectors and sinners were all drawing near to listen to him, but the Pharisees and scribes began to complain, saying, “This man welcomes sinners and eats with them.” So to them he addressed this parable. “What man among you having a hundred sheep and losing one of them would not leave the ninety-nine in the desert and go after the lost one until he finds it? And when he does find it, he sets it on his shoulders with great joy and, upon his arrival home, he calls together his friends and neighbors and says to them, ‘Rejoice with me because I have found my lost sheep.’ I tell you, in just the same way there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner who repents than over ninety-nine righteous people who have no need of repentance.”

The Gospel of the Lord.

24. After the Gospel there may be a short period of silence. Then a Lector will read the beginning of the Bull of Indiction of the Extraordinary Jubilee.

From the Bull of Indiction of the Extraordinary Jubilee of Mercy

Misericordiae Vultus (1-3)

Jesus Christ is the face of the Father’s mercy. These words might well sum up the mystery of the Christian faith. Mercy has become living and visible in Jesus of Nazareth, reaching its culmination in him. The Father, “rich in mercy” (Eph 2:4), after having revealed his name to Moses as “a God merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love and faithfulness” (Ex 34:6), has never ceased to show, in various ways throughout history, his divine nature. In the “fullness of time” (Gal 4:4), when everything had been arranged according to his plan of salvation, he sent his only Son into the world, born of the Virgin Mary, to reveal his love for us in a definitive way. Whoever sees Jesus sees the Father (cf. Jn 14:9). Jesus of Nazareth, by his words, his actions, and his entire person reveals the mercy of God.
We need constantly to contemplate the mystery of mercy. It is a wellspring of joy, serenity, and peace. Our salvation depends on it. Mercy: the word reveals the very mystery of the Most Holy Trinity. Mercy: the ultimate and supreme act by which God comes to meet us. Mercy: the fundamental law that dwells in the heart of every person who looks sincerely into the eyes of his brothers and sisters on the path of life. Mercy: the bridge that connects God and man, opening our hearts to the hope of being loved forever despite our sinfulness.

At times we are called to gaze even more attentively on mercy so that we may become a more effective sign of the Father’s action in our lives. For this reason I have proclaimed an Extraordinary Jubilee of Mercy as a special time for the Church, a time when the witness of believers might grow stronger and more effective.

25. After this reading is complete, the Deacon or another minister says the following to begin the procession:

Brothers and sisters,
let us go forth in the name of Christ:
He is the way that leads us
in the year of grace and mercy.

PROCESSION

27. The Bishop places incense in the thurible. The procession to the cathedral (or co-cathedral) where Mass will be celebrated then begins. The thurifer, carrying the lit thurible, goes first, followed by the Deacon carrying the festively decorated processional cross. On each side of him is a candle bearer, followed by the Deacon bearing the Book of the Gospels, then the Bishop, and behind him, the Priests and other ministers, followed by the lay faithful. During the procession, the people and the choir sing the antiphons and psalms proposed below. The Litany of the Saints and other appropriate chants may also be sung.

Antiphon

I will sing of the love of the Lord at all times, throughout every generation my mouth shall proclaim his fidelity.  Cf. Ps 89:2

or:

Blessed are the merciful, for they shall receive mercy.  Mt 5:7

or:

The Lord is good to all,
compassionate to every creature.  Ps 145:9

From Psalm 86

Hear me, Lord, and answer me,
for I am poor and oppressed.
Preserve my life, for I am loyal;
save your servant who trusts in you.

You are my God; pity me, Lord;
to you I call all the day.
Gladden the soul of your servant;
to you, Lord, I lift up my soul.

Lord, you are kind and forgiving,
most loving to all who call on you.
Lord, hear my prayer;
listen to my cry for help.

In this time of trouble I call,
for you will answer me.
None among the gods can equal you, O Lord;
nor can their deeds compare to yours.

All the nations you have made shall come to bow before you, Lord,
and give honor to your name.
For you are great and do wondrous deeds;
and you alone are God.

Teach me, Lord, your way
that I may walk in your truth,
single-hearted and revering your name.

I will praise you with all my heart,
glorify your name forever, Lord my God.
Your mercy to me is great;
you have rescued me from the depths of Sheol.

O God, the arrogant have risen against me;
a ruthless band has sought my life;
to you they pay no heed.

But you, Lord, are a merciful and gracious God,
slow to anger, most loving and true.

or:

From Psalm 25

I wait for you, O Lord:
I lift up my soul to my God.
In you I trust; do not let me be disgraced;
do not let my enemies gloat over me.

No one is disgraced who waits for you,
but only those who lightly break faith.
Make known to me your ways, Lord;
teach me your paths.

Guide me in your truth and teach me,
for you are God my savior.
For you I wait all the long day,
because of your goodness, Lord.

Remember your compassion and love, O Lord,
for they are ages old.
Remember no more the sins of my youth;
remember me only in light of your love.

Good and upright is the Lord,
who shows sinners the way,
Guides the humble rightly,
and teaches the humble the way.
All the paths of the Lord are faithful love toward those who honor his covenant demands.
For the sake of your name, Lord, pardon my guilt, though it is great.

Who are those who fear the Lord?
God shows them the way to choose.
They live well and prosper,
and his descendants inherit the land.

The counsel of the Lord belongs to the faithful;
the covenant instructs them.
My eyes are ever upon the Lord,
who frees my feet from the snare.

Look upon me, have pity on me,
for I am alone and afflicted.
Relieve the troubles of my heart;
bring me out of my distress.

Put an end to my affliction and suffering;
take away all my sins.
See how many are my enemies,
see how fiercely they hate me.
Preserve my life and rescue me;
do not let me be disgraced, for in trust in you.

ENTRANCE INTO THE CATHEDRAL

28. The procession stops at the main door of the cathedral
(or co-cathedral). Here the Bishop says:
Open the gates of justice,
we shall enter and gives thanks to the Lord.
Cf. Ps 118:19

29. As the door opens, the Bishop says:
This is the Lord's gate:
let us enter through it and obtain mercy and forgiveness.

30. The Deacon gives the Book of the Gospels to the Bishop. Standing at the threshold, the Bishop holds up the Book of the Gospels while the antiphon indicated here (or another appropriate antiphon) is sung. While the Book of the Gospels is shown, the Deacon carrying the processional cross stands directly next to the Bishop.

Antiphon

I am the gate, says the Lord,
whoever enters through me, will be saved;
he will enter and go out and find pasture.
Cf. Jn 10:9

31. Once the antiphon is finished, the procession begins again and moves toward the altar: The thurible, cross, and candles go first; the Bishop proceeds next with the Book of the Gospels, followed by the Priests, the other ministers, and the faithful. In the meantime the entrance antiphon or another appropriate antiphon is sung.

Entrance Antiphon
Phil 4:4–5

Rejoice in the Lord always:
again I say, rejoice,
for the Lord is near!

32. Once the Bishop reaches the altar, he places the Book of the Gospels upon it. Then, if he has worn a cope for the procession, he removes it and puts on a chasuble. He then reverences the altar, incenses it, and finally goes to his chair.

REMEMBRANCE OF BAPTISM AND RENEWAL OF VOWS

33. A container with water to be blessed is brought to the Bishop. The Bishop then invites everyone to pray in these or similar words.

My dear brothers and sisters,
let us ask the Lord to bless this water,*
a reminder of our Baptism.*
With it, let us invoke the Lord’s mercy and salvation that come through the power of the resurrection of Jesus Christ.*
Everyone prays in silence for a short time.
Then the Bishop continues with hands joined.

Almighty God,
creator and source of all life,
bless + this water
and grant that we your faithful, sprinkled from this purifying font,
may receive the forgiveness of sins,
deliverance from all evil,
and the grace of your protection.
In your mercy, O Lord, give us a spring of living water springing up to eternal life,
so that, free from every danger,
we may come to you with pure hearts.
Through Christ our Lord.

R. Amen.

34. The Bishop takes the aspergillum and first sprinkles himself, then the concelebrants, then the ministers, and finally the people, walking through the nave of the cathedral (or co-cathedral). While this is taking place, the following antiphons or other appropriate songs are sung.

Antiphon

Cleanse me with hyssop, O Lord, that I may be pure;
wash me, and I will be whiter than snow.

Cf. Ps 51:9

or:

Purify me, O Lord:
and I will be whiter than snow.

or:

I will pour pure water upon you,
and you will be cleansed of every sin,
and I will give you a new heart, says the Lord.

Cf. Ez 47:1-2,9

35. The Bishop then returns to his chair and says:

May almighty God cleanse us of our sins,
and through the celebration of this Eucharist make us worthy to share at the table of his Kingdom.

R. Amen.

36. The Bishop then sings or says the Collect.

Let us pray.

O God, who see how your people faithfully await the feast of the Lord’s Nativity, enable us, we pray,
to attain the joys of so great a salvation and to celebrate them always with solemn worship and glad rejoicing.
Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
one God, for ever and ever.

R. Amen.

37. Mass proceeds as usual.

CONCLUDING RITES

38. Before the final solemn blessing, the faithful are to be informed of the churches and shrines in which the bishop has designated a Door of Mercy for gaining a plenary indulgence throughout the Jubilee Year. He then says:

We now turn our thoughts to Mary, the Mother of Mercy. May her merciful gaze be upon us throughout this Holy Year, so that all of us may rediscover the joy of God’s tenderness.

The assembly then invokes Mary, Mother of Mercy, by singing the Salve Regina or the Alma Redemptoris Mater or another appropriate song.

The Bishop then imparts the solemn blessing for the season of Advent.

39. After the blessing, the Deacon announces the dismissal as usual. If deemed appropriate, he may say: “Be merciful, just as your heavenly Father is merciful. Go in peace.” The people reply: “Thanks be to God.” The assembly then goes forth, praising and thanking God.
The Opening of the Jubilee Year in Churches and Shrines Designated By the Diocesan Bishop

40. In the churches and shrines where the bishop has designated a Door of Mercy, the Bishop's delegate, at the appointed time, presides over a Eucharistic liturgy for the Third Sunday of Advent.

At the beginning of the celebration, the celebrant makes his way to the main door of the church or shrine where, after the entrance antiphon has been sung, he begins the celebration with the Sign of the Cross and the greeting as indicated in n. 19. He then invites the congregation to bless and praise the Lord using one of the formulas indicated in n. 20. Once these invocations are finished, he says the following prayer:

Let us pray.
Blessed are you, Lord, holy Father, who sent your Son into the world to gather all men and women, wounded and scattered by sin,
into one body through the shedding of his blood.

You appointed him both shepherd and gate for the sheep,
so that whoever enters may be saved,
and whoever comes in and goes out will find pasture for eternal life.

Grant that your faithful may pass through this gate,
and be welcomed into your presence,
so that they may experience, O Father, your abundant mercy.
Through Christ our Lord.

Cf. Book of Blessings, 1229

R. Amen.

41. At the conclusion of this prayer, the celebrant introduces the sprinkling rite with these or similar words:
Dear brothers and sisters, this year of mercy, inaugurated by the Holy Father, invites each of us to a profound experience of grace and reconciliation.

The sprinkling of this holy water is a reminder of our baptism.
It recalls the mercy and salvation we have received through the power of Christ’s resurrection.

42. After this introduction, the celebrant, accompanied by the ministers, begins to move toward the altar, sprinkling the people with holy water taken from the font at the main entrance. In the meantime, the antiphons indicated in n. 34, or other appropriate songs, are sung.

43. After making a profound bow before the altar and reverencing it with a kiss, the celebrant incenses it and makes his way to the chair where he pronounces the formula indicated in n. 35.

44. The Mass continues as usual with the Collect.

45. At the end of Mass, the assembly may be dismissed with the formula indicated in n. 39.
The Closing Celebration of the Extraordinary Jubilee in Local Churches

November 13, 2016

Thirty-Third Sunday of Ordinary Time

INTRODUCTION

The following directives for the Closing Celebration of the Extraordinary Jubilee in Local Churches regards the Churches of the Roman Rite and Churches of other Western, non-Roman rites. The competent authorities of the latter may make changes to adapt the ritual to their particular cultures.

Pastors of Eastern Churches may, if they desire, offer directives in harmony with their own liturgical traditions.

The day

1. In the Bull of Indiction Misericordiae Vultus, Pope Francis decreed that the Holy Year would conclude on November 20, 2016, the Solemnity of Our Lord Jesus Christ, King of the Universe, with the closing of the Holy Door in the Basilica of St. Peter’s at the Vatican. On the preceding Sunday, November 13, the Thirty-Third Sunday of Ordinary Time, the Jubilee will be brought to a close in local churches.

The place

2. In local Churches, there should be a single celebration of the Eucharist in the cathedral for the closing of the Jubilee Year.

In other churches and shrines that have been designated by the diocesan Bishop as sites of a Door of Mercy, a Eucharistic celebration of thanksgiving should be celebrated, presided over by a delegate of the Bishop.

The celebrant

3. Both the nature of the day and the Church’s tradition make it most fitting that the Bishop preside over the entire celebration. Priests, especially his closest collaborators, should concelebrate with the Bishop. Deacons, Acolytes, and Lectors each exercise their respective ministries, and the faithful are strongly encouraged to attend inasmuch as possible. If a closing celebration occurs simultaneously in the co-cathedral, the latter ceremony should be presided over by a delegate of the Bishop.
The celebration of the Eucharist

4. The Mass that concludes the Extraordinary Jubilee is essentially a Sunday celebration of the Eucharist. If the Bishop deems it appropriate, he may use the Mass for Giving Thanks to God, found among the Masses for Various Needs (no. 49) in the Roman Missal. The readings are those assigned to the Thirty-Third Sunday of Ordinary Time, Year C.

Expression of thanksgiving

5. After the Prayer after Communion, the Bishop, in a way harmonious with the liturgical celebration, gives thanks to God for the graces received during the Jubilee Year and invites the assembly to join him in rendering thanks. The Magnificat, insofar as it is the Virgin Mary’s song of thanksgiving shared by the Church, is particularly appropriate here.

INTRODUCTORY RITES

6. On the Thirty-Third Sunday of Ordinary Time, at the appointed time, the faithful gather in the cathedral church.

7. Once the people have gathered, the Bishop, concelebrating Priests, and Deacons, vested in green liturgical vestments, begin their entrance procession. The choir and people join in singing the official hymn of the Jubilee Year.

8. The Bishop reverences the altar and proceeds to his chair. He then addresses the assembly in these words.

   In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.

The people reply: Amen.

   He then greets the people:

   May the mercy of the Father,
   the peace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the communion of the Holy Spirit
   be with all of you.

   The people reply: And with your spirit.

9. The Bishop introduces the assembly to the celebration in these or similar words:
Dearly beloved brothers and sisters,
we have reached the end of the Jubilee Year.
It has been an extraordinary time of grace and mercy.
In this Eucharistic celebration, we raise our voices to the Father
in a hymn of praise and thanksgiving for all the gifts he has bestowed upon us.
Once more, before approaching these sacred mysteries, let us invoke the soothing balm of his mercy acknowledging that we are sinners and forgiving one another from the bottom of our hearts.

10. After a brief period of silence, the Deacon or another minister says or sings the following invocations:
   Cf. the Roman Missal, Season of Lent

   You command us to forgive one another before approaching your altar: Lord, have mercy.

   R. Lord, have mercy. Or: Kyrie, eleison.

   You invoked mercy upon sinners as you hung upon the cross: Christ, have mercy.

   R. Christ, have mercy. Or: Christe, eleison.

   You entrust the ministry of reconciliation to your Church, Lord, have mercy.

   R. Lord, have mercy. Or: Kyrie, eleison.

11. The Bishop concludes:

   May Almighty God have mercy on us,
   forgive us our sins,
   and bring us to everlasting life.

   R. Amen.

12. The Gloria in excelsis (Glory to God in the highest) is then sung and the Mass continues as usual.
CONCLUDING RITES

13. Following the Prayer after Communion, the bishop invites all those present to thank the Lord for all the spiritual gifts he has bestowed upon them during the Jubilee Year. He may do this in these or similar words:

Brothers and sisters,
let us joyfully thank God,
the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Throughout this year of grace,
he has bestowed on us every heavenly blessing in Christ.
He has given us this precious time of mercy and conversion.

Let us express our thanks and joy in the words of the Virgin Mary, our Mother.
As we sing the Lord's mercy extending to every generation, let us ask him to pour out, like the morning dewfall, that same mercy unceasingly upon the entire world.

14. The Bishop and people then sing the Magnificat.

15. Once the canticle is finished, the Deacon says:

Bow down for the blessing.

16. Then the Bishop, with hands extended over the people, says the following prayer. Cf. Roman Missal, Eighteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time, Collect Show us your mercy, Lord, and come to the aid of your people who call upon you as their shepherd and guide;

restore what you have created and keep safe what you have restored.
Through Christ our Lord.

R. Amen.
And may the blessing of almighty God,
the Father, + and the Son, + and the Holy + Spirit,
come down on you and remain with you for ever.

R. Amen.

17. After the blessing, the Deacon announces the dismissal as usual. If deemed appropriate, he may say: “Be merciful, just as your heavenly Father is merciful. Go in peace.” The people reply: “Thanks be to God.” The assembly then goes forth, praising and thanking God.
This series of eight books, promulgated by the Pontifical Council for the Promotion of the New Evangelization, are the official catechetical resource for the Jubilee Year. Pope Francis will be speaking on these themes in his weekly catechesis throughout the year. The Pontifical Council will also be publicizing the books on its own Vatican website and, of course, the Official Holy Year of Mercy website.
